Involving Youth in Your Substance Abuse Prevention Program

Dates

Monday, November 9 – Friday, November 13, 2015

Audience

Prevention providers, and prevention coalition partners

Description

Young people are acutely aware of the problems facing their families and communities. Advocates for youth involvement argue that the most successful prevention programs engage youth in all aspects of planning, as well as in the implementation, management, and evaluation of program activities. This course is designed to help substance abuse prevention practitioners develop the knowledge and skills to do this effectively, by creating opportunities to involve youth in meaningful ways.

What Does Participation Entail?

This self-paced course will take approximately five hours to complete, though timing will vary depending on your familiarity with the content, learning style, and competing demands on your time. Participants will be provided with access information following registration.

On passing the assessment at the end of this course (80% correct), participants will receive a Certificate of Completion for five hours of participation.
